Compliance | Version 1.0 | Effective date: 1 January 2026

IMPORTANT: This is a fictional sample document created for HRMS demonstration/testing. It is not an official company policy or legal advice. Replace organization-specific details and have HR/legal teams review it before real-world use.

1. Purpose

This sample framework describes workplace principles for lawful employment practices, ethical conduct, and respectful treatment. It is a policy starter, not a legal interpretation of Indian labour legislation.

2. Compliance principles

- Follow applicable central and state employment laws, rules, notifications, and statutory obligations.
- Maintain accurate employment, attendance, wage, leave, and benefit records.
- Provide employees with clear information about working hours, compensation, leave, and grievance channels.
- Protect personal and employment data and limit access to authorized personnel.
- Escalate suspected violations promptly and preserve relevant records.

3. Code of ethics

- Treat colleagues, candidates, customers, and partners with dignity and fairness.
- Do not engage in harassment, discrimination, bullying, retaliation, fraud, or bribery.
- Disclose conflicts of interest and avoid misuse of company property or confidential information.
- Use company systems responsibly and report suspected security incidents.
- Keep business records accurate; never falsify attendance, expenses, qualifications, or approvals.

4. Grievance and reporting

Employees may raise concerns with their manager, HR, the designated grievance channel, or another legally mandated committee/channel where applicable. Reports should be handled promptly, impartially, confidentially to the extent possible, and without retaliation for good-faith reporting.

5. Investigation and corrective action

The organization should document allegations, provide a fair opportunity to respond, restrict information to those who need it, and apply proportionate corrective action consistent with law and policy.

6. Responsibilities

- Employees: understand and follow applicable policies; report concerns.
- Managers: model ethical behavior and escalate issues.
- HR/compliance: maintain policies, training, records, and review processes.
- Leadership: resource compliance and support a speak-up culture.

7. Review note

Have qualified Indian employment counsel review this document against current legislation, applicable state rules, establishment type, and the organization’s facts before adoption.
